

Mr. Truman, Over South Sioux City, Saw a Riptide of Water

—AP Wirephoto.

The President Gets an Eyefull—President Truman flew over the rampaging Missouri April 16, landed in Omaha to confer with governors of seven Midwest states. The photo shows the presidential plane, the Independence, above inundated South Sioux City, Neb. Sioux City, Ia., is at left.

ADVERTISEMENT ADVERTISEMENT ADVERTISEMENT

The devotion and loyalty of every man and woman at Orchard & Wilhelm Co. enabled the management to evacuate two floors of their warehouse in the danger zone and supply more than 300 people to work on the dykes and otherwise guard the safety of the industrial area. The company also sent all large furniture trucks and all but two of their small trucks to the work of evacuation.

Orchard & Wilhelm Co.

Flood 'Army' Had to Be Fed, 'Deserted City' Had to Be Guard

It Hurts a Little—Janette Anderson, 2, showed the normal reaction when her mother, Mrs. Max L. Anderson (center), took her to a Council Bluffs center for typhoid inoculation.

Animals Weren't Forgotten—Here Capt. Ole Rasmussen (right) and Sgt. 1/C Emmett F. Muller of the National Guard take care of a lost kitten in Council Bluffs. Animal shelters in both cities fed cats, dogs, rabbits, goats.

Army Travels on Stomach—Relief agencies didn't forget the Napoleonic maxim. They went to the levees, fed the workers. Red Cross served 330 thousand "snacks" of coffee and sandwiches, some 15 thousand hot meals. Salvation Army workers did about an equal job in their mobile canteens. This picture shows Hostess Hazel Christensen at her job.

On Guard—When Council Bluffs' West End was emptied three days before the crest National Guardsmen and civilian police set up check points to watch traffic. Those who didn't have passes were ordered out. This was to protect against looting of homes that were vacant for a week to 10 days.

Our Hat is Off to the thousands of people who so unselfishly did their part during the recent flood threat. We are proud to be a part of a community where the true meaning of cooperation became a working reality. It is from our heart when we say to the many... "Thanks for your help."

EATON METAL PRODUCTS CORPORATION
13th and Willis Ave. Omaha, Nebraska